Draft Lottery Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate approval of President Nixon's draft lottery proposal appears virtually certain after senators favoring broader reform dropped their fight in the face of an ultimatum from the Armed Services Committee.

Final action on the lottery bill could come within two weeks.

The reform advocates received a pledge of hearings and possible action in 1970 from Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the committee, as they agreed Tuesday to go along with the lottery plan passed by the House.

Even though chances of extensive draft reform this year were ruled out, the subcommittee on administrative practices and procedures continued its draft hearings today by calling Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a leader of the draft reform forces, is presiding over the hearings.

The pledge by Stennis of hearings and possible action next year appeared of doubtful value for two reasons:

—Stennis himself has indicated opposition to many reform proposals such as an all-volunteer army.

—There is no guarantee the House Armed Services Committee will take any action next year.

The current draft law runs until June 30, 1971.

Flag-Waving Citizens Give Nixon OK Sign

'Silent Majority' On Parade In Every Area

Hundreds of Veteran's Day ceremonies, many aimed at giving President Nixon's "silent majority" a chance of piping up, drew thousands of flag-waving citizens in cities and hamlets across America.

Some of the larger crowds — estimated by police at more than 10,000 each — were in Washington, Boston and Tallahassee, Fla.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis W. Sargent — declaring "Veterans are being produced the hard way in Vietnam at this very moment" — led 11,000 marchers in Boston. The Tallahassee parade featured traditional floats and civic displays.

In the nation's capital, organizers of the Veterans Day Freedom Rally at the Washington Monument could claim success as the estimated turnout on a cool but clear autumn day matched their predictions.

The mostly white, neatly dressed gathering in Washington applauded and shouted approval during the 2½ hours as speaker after speaker attacked the leaders of the war protest movement.

They heard Rep. Donald Lukens, R-Ohio, call the war protesters "Spockettes" after the well-known baby doctor and outspoken war critic, Benjamin Spock.

"They've had their day, they're beginning to make daddy and big brother mad," Lukens said.

They cheered agreement when Ed Butler, 34, who calls himself a "conflict manager," said of Saturday's war protest march: "Parading with these people is like marching with the Mafia for better law enforcement."

Some 35,000 were on the same ground Oct. 15 for music, speeches and the beginning of a candlelight march the night of the Vietnam Day Moratorium. And it was as an answer to this war protest and others that the "freedom rally" Tuesday was declared to make something extra of the Veterans Day observance.

Long-haired young people and the freedom ralliers occasionally joined in argument on Vietnam—maybe a dozen small clusters in the mass for the day.

Neither side of the argument seemed to be listening to the other.

Not far away, the President and Mrs. Nixon paid a 45-minute visit to a Veterans Administration hospital. Their daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, observed the day in the same fashion by touring a hospital in Northampton, Mass.

Mrs. Eisenhower called the war a "terrible tragedy," and said she believes her father is trying sincerely to end it and that she hopes it is settled before next June when her husband graduates from college.

Veterans United

In the South, stars of the Atlanta baseball team, including Hank Aaron and Phil Niekro, also paid visits to veterans in hospitals.

Although the day was dedicated to honoring America's warriors of past and present, many citizens who back Nixon's Vietnam policy and oppose the war protests took advantage of the occasion to show their feelings by showing the flag and driving with their car lights on.

In Pensacola, Fla., after a "biggest ever" Veterans Day parade, program chairman Clarence Morrow said: "The silent majority showed their respect for the President, this country and the flag today."

Policy Supported

Near a monument honoring World War I dead at Ridgefield, N.J., five men and a woman camped out in tents overnight and reported collecting more than 400 signatures supporting the U.S. policy in Vietnam. Sponsors called the gesture "a vigil for our flat."

The nation's only surviving five-star general, Omar Bradley, 76, told 1,500 persons in the huge Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum: "If we as a nation believe we are pledged to uphold, then we do not deserve the heritage which is ours. Other generations have kept the faith. It is our turn to keep the faith. This heritage is freedom, with responsibility."

Other Programs

Other programs backing U.S. policy were held in:

—Sioux Falls, S.D., where Ed McGee, a Sioux Indian who flew 110 combat missions over Vietnam, called for a "united effort" behind the President.

—Atlanta, where Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox said those who participate in war protests "betray our boys in battle."

—Jefferson City, Mo., where Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., warned violence is on the agenda for this weekend's war protest in Washington.

Avenue March Okayed, Capitol Out Of Bounds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam protesters have won the right to march down Pennsylvania Avenue—a street the government had insisted was off limits—but will avoid the White House, once a prime target of their demonstrations.

Peaceful March Eyed

The Veterans Day armistice hammered out Tuesday with top Justice Department officials ended a month-long battle and paved the way for what both sides now say will be a massive, but peaceful demonstration.

The government is "not giving anything to which the people are not entitled," said one demonstration leader, Ron Young. But, he added: "We're basically happy and ready to move now."

As Young spoke at a news conference Tuesday night, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell underscored the administration's viewpoint, telling a Milwaukee audience that "the foreign policy of this government cannot and will not be formulated in the streets of Washington—or in any other street of this nation."

Astronaut Eyes Political Field

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space hero John H. Glenn Jr., who aborted one run for the U.S. Senate from Ohio, has indicated he's on the verge of launching a second attempt.

Former astronaut Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, spent Tuesday in Washington conferring with political advisers, Democratic National Chairman Sen. Fred Harris and other party officials.

"We've been looking into this for some time," said Glenn after the day's conferences, "and if things keep looking as favorable as they have, hopefully we'll have an announcement in the near future."

The seriousness of his intentions were underlined by his leaving New York, where he has been associated with Royal Crown Cola, and moving to Columbus.

He declined to confirm or deny reports he has resigned at Royal Crown. "We've had some changes in my status at Royal Crown," he said, adding he'll leave the formal announcement up to the firm.

Rights Recognized

But, added Mitchell, "this administration clearly recognizes the right of these people under our First Amendment to peacefully congregate in Washington and to petition the government with respect to their grievances—assumed or otherwise."

The march sponsors, the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, had demanded permission to swing past the White House on their march down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the Washington Monument.

March Block Away

Now the marchers—perhaps as many as 200,000 in what could be the biggest antiwar protest in history—will turn off the broad avenue at 15th Street, a block short of the White House, and head for the monument to climax three days of demonstrations.

Democrats Stalling On Education Reform

LANSING (AP) — Senate Republicans pushed for action today on Gov. William Milliken's education-related tax proposals as Democrats adopted a "wait and see" attitude.

Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, said he still hoped some part of the reform package would make it through the Upper Chamber this week. If not, he said, outlook for enactment of the program would fade.

Lockwood managed a squeaking victory Tuesday when Republicans provided one more vote than opposition Democrats to push a $116 million property tax bill to the top of the Senate's debate calendar.

The vote was 17-16 on Lockwood's motion to move up the bill eliminating the property tax credit against the income tax.

"The Republicans apparently want to pass that without negotiating on an equitable tax package," said minority leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley. "They want to try to put it through on their own terms."

"Let them try," he said. "Then maybe we can enter some negotiations. At least maybe the governor will be more willing to do so."

In order to pass the measure, Republican leaders would have to muster all 20 GOP votes or round up some Democratic support.

Many Democrats, however, have said they wanted to look at pending measures that would "close tax loopholes" before taking up the property tax proposal.

Currently before the Senate are two bills that would bring in an estimated $60 million by removing the sales and use tax exemptions granted industry and agriculture for equipment they use.

Three other exemption bills—sponsored by taxation chairman Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek—were expected to be reported from the committee soon.

New Mobe Prepared To 'Do Its Thing'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like one big unhappy family, the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has bickered from the beginning.

But despite the inner strains—there was even a memorable brawl at one meeting—this uneasy alliance of moderates, liberals, clerical pacifists, radicals and Communists may bring off the largest peace demonstrations in the nation's history.

Hundreds of thousands of demonstrators are expected to take part in three days of marches and rallies beginning in Washington at dusk Thursday and ending Saturday with mammoth marches and rallies here and in San Francisco.

Vietnam Target

The vast majority of the demonstrators will be apolitical or moderates—people concerned mainly with Vietnam. They will be unaware of the communications gap, occasional credibility gap and dollar gap that vex the umbrella organization coxing them out of their homes, schools and businesses.

The New Mobilization, or New Mobe, could be as much as $60,000 in the hole Saturday—a deficit it hopes to cut drastically through the sale of commemorative posters and buttons.

"If we're in the black, we're doing bad," said Sidney Lens, the veteran labor radical serving as one of the New Mobe's eight national co-chairmen. "Any movement that is in the black is doing bad. We measure our success by our deficit but we hope that can be reduced."

But much more troublesome than the dollar gap has been the ideological gap with its never ending clamor over tactics, power relationships, political phraseology and goals.

The storm clouds were there at the very start. Followers of Leon Trotsky, who have organized around the war issue since the mid-sixties, tried to pack the July 4th meeting in Cleveland that brought the New Mobe into being.

A direct descendant of the National Mobilization Committee, which staged the 1967 Pentagon march, the New Mobe was the brainchild of the old Mobe personalities—Lens, pacifist David Dellinger, Prof. Sidney Peck, all tough minded radicals, all free of any clearcut factional label.

Hold Leadership

They managed to retain control of the leadership at Cleveland but the three-way contention between old and new left forces and the moderate middle has raged unabated since.

At a Nov. 2 steering committee meeting in Chicago, for example, the ideological din became so fierce that at one point Peck threatened to resign.

At a planning meeting of the West Coast Mobe in San Francisco, the explosive radical lawyer, Terence (Kayo) Hallinan, watched in rising anger as Trotskyists maneuvered on the floor.

Punch Thrown

Hallinan, another of the New Mobe's eight national co-chairmen, said he finally had enough. He threw a punch because "I was not going down without a fight."

Others at the meeting broke up the brawl, and one by one all the disputes on the West Coast—even the one between Hallinan and the Trotskyists—were resolved or at least put aside as the day of the march neared.

There was even agreement on a speaker's list—a delicate compromise that will put a Black Panther on the San Francisco platform with former Sen. Wayne Morse.

The same kind of compromise was painfully reached for the Washington rally where Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Trotskyist Carol Lipman will be among a wide spectrum of speakers.

Differences Noted

In the day-to-day operations of the coalition, the factions coexist and cooperate. But their ideological differences remain.

New Left radicals distrust Old Left radicals—who operate under a chain of command and submit to a discipline, such as members of the Communist Party, USA, or the Trotskyists. The new leftists also have a bone-deep aversion to compromise or what they see as the disguised sellout of radical aims.

Peck, who at 42 can operate with the pragmatism of the Old Left, calls that aversion "purism" and says it is part of the tradition of the Students for a Democratic Society, a notable coalition absentee.

Radicals Worried

But these young radicals are worried as the movement drives toward a mass political base. As they see it, the more people in the movement, the more moderate it must become and the more hopelessly compromised.

When it is not focused on the Old Left, the New Left's distrust fixes on the liberals of the McCarthy or Kennedy stripe—the kind of liberals operating the Vietnam Moratorium, a major if somewhat reluctant component of the New Mobe coalition.

The liberals in turn distrust the radicals of both the new and old left variety. Liberals still embrace the electoral system and believe that majority opinion, not confrontation, is the surest way to a Vietnam pull-out.

'Trots' Appear On Scene

Such ideological cross currents are the ideal swimming place for the Trotskyists or "Trots," a slender but highly organized international organization with roots in the historic and eventually murderous split between Stalin and Trotsky.

The Trots hold about 10 of the 100 steering committee seats, but neither they nor any other faction controls the coalition.

Trotsky is prominent in the leadership of the Student Mobilization Committee, an organization that claims over 1,000 chapters in the nation's high schools and campuses. Carol Lipman, a former national secretary of the Young Socialist Alliance, is national SMC secretary.

Organized In 1966

The SMC has been organizing around the antiwar movement since 1966 in the single issue tactic historically dear to the Trots.

"Our line is an antiwar line, not a Trotsky line," said Miss Lipman, a 24-year-old plumber's daughter from Lynn, Mass. "Any attempt to accuse us of being dominated by any political philosophy is rebaiting."

The Trots came off the single issue line at the Cleveland meeting and went along with the conference call for action not only against the war but against a host of other ills.

Something For Everyone

A conference statement, written by Lens, had something for almost everybody:

"We call for this demonstration and rally . . . to stop the war in Vietnam now, to bring all our troops home immediately and in one piece, to win free speech and democratic rights for GIs, to stop the repression and free all political prisoners, to end the draft, to put an end to racism in all America and colonialism in Washington, D.C."

To implement these goals, the New Mobe set up headquarters in Washington.

And a dozen organizing teams began traveling the country in September to drum up support for the November demonstrations and to help build local support organizations.

$1,000,000 Program

Steve Wilcox, a former teacher and the closest thing the New Mobe has to a comptroller, says the East Coast operations could

Red China Vote In UN Getting Closer Yearly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly voted Tuesday night to keep Communist China out of the 19th time, but six more nations changed their votes.

The 126-nation assembly rejected the proposal by a vote of 56 to 48 with 21 abstentions. The vote last year was 58 to 44 and 23 abstentions. The outcome this year was never in doubt.

Although decisively defeated, Peking picked up four nations who swung from the abstention column to the yes column: Libya, Mauritius, Ghana and Nigeria.

Two other nations switched from no last year to abstentions: Italy and Belgium. Both are negotiating to establish diplomatic relations with Peking.

The closest vote was in 1965 when the result was 47 to 47 with 20 abstentions. However, this was a defeat because the assembly has voted every year that the question of China's representation is a substantive issue requiring a two-thirds majority for assembly action rather than a procedural issue requiring only a simple majority.

This year, the U.S.-backed resolution for the two-thirds rule received 71 votes in favor, 48 against and 4 abstentions.

Seventeen Communist or non-aligned nations sponsored the resolution to seat Peking. The Soviet Union was not a sponsor and for the first time did not even speak on behalf of Red China. India, a longtime supporter, also kept silent.

Since Moscow became embroiled in its bitter power struggle with Peking, Soviet support has been growing more perfunctory each year.

President Gets State Backing

LANSING (AP) — As Americans honored their veterans Tuesday, the Michigan State Senate passed a resolution supporting President Nixon's declared plan to end the Vietnam war.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, passed over objections from a few Democrats.

Noting Nixon's speech to the nation earlier this month regarding the war, the resolution said "a precipitate withdrawal would inevitably allow the communists to repeat the massacres which followed their takeover of the north 15 years ago."

It outlined Nixon's "Vietnamization plan in which U.S. Forces are withdrawn in direct proportion to the increase in strength of the Vietnam forces in accordance with an orderly timetable."

"There has been no progress in public, private or secret negotiations and there is considerable criticism against the President and the United States of America for its Vietnam policy," the resolution said.

It gave Nixon support "during this great dilemma."

Twenty-five senators voted for the resolution, seven against. One Democrat, Sen. John McCauley of Wyandotte, said later that he wanted to vote "aye," instead of "no," as he indicated previously.

A similar resolution is awaiting consideration in the House.

Meanwhile, Sen. Oscar Bouwsma, R-Muskegon, introduced a resolution asking the President and Congress "to forego tax cuts and rebate revenues to the state and local units of government."

Train Fireman Dies In Crash

NEW CARLISLE, Ind. (AP) — The fireman of a 30-car mail train was killed Tuesday when he jumped from the engine just before it slammed into the rear of an idle 138-car freight train 2 miles west of here, police said.

Investigators said Leonard Hoover, 50, Elkhart, was crushed by a derailed car after he jumped seconds before the two Penn Central trains collided.

The impact derailed 27 cars, closed the Penn Central's main New York-to-Chicago line and scattered overseas mail over a wide area.

Railroad officials said the mail train rounded a curve at 60 miles an hour and came upon the halted freight.

Penn Central officials said it was not unusual for two trains to be on the same track but were investigating why the freight train had stopped. The mail train had received clearance through to New Carlisle, officials said.

Challenge Of City Growth:

Sewer-Water Needs To Cost $3 Million

By CLINT DUNATHAN
The citizens of Escanaba are confronted with a $3 million capital improvements problem that is not going to go away and will become more costly if its solution is delayed.
Information concerning the problem—the development of adequate sewage collection and treatment plus extension of water service—was presented by Francis D'Amour, superintendent of the city's water and waste-water department, to the Rotary Club Tuesday noon.
Thomas Straebel, Rotary president, conducted the meeting, and the speaker was introduced by Rodger Murray of the club's program committee.
One of the reasons for concern is the continuing growth of the Escanaba area and the increasing demands for water and sewage disposal services, plus rising standards for waste disposal for better control of water pollution.

Growing City
D'Amour in noting the development of the community listed investments of private and public money, in the majority the result of studies and planning over a period of years. Have the long-range plans for the community's growth materialized?
"Let's take a look at the record, as the saying goes," D'Amour told the Rotarians and then read a partial list of public and private construction within the past 20 years:
• Escanaba Public High School, Holy Name High School, Bay de Noc Community College, St. Patrick's Grade School, St. Anne's Church and School, St. Thomas School and Church, Kennedy School for Retarded Children.
• New Washington, Lemmer, Franklin and Jefferson elementary schools, Delta County Building, County Jail, State Office Building, State

"This was all above the ground—all of this you can see—but now comes the need to bury $6 million in the ground," said D'Amour. "This will be for something you can't see, but for something that is absolutely essential to our people."

Revenue Bonds
The $6 million is the total estimated cost of the development of adequate municipal water supply and of improved wastewater disposal to meet ever-rising state and federal regulations.
The City of Escanaba has already and voluntarily signed stipulations with the Michigan Department of Health to meet the higher quality standards (including reduction of phosphates in effluent) designed to reduce water pollution.
Escanaba's cost of the $6 million package is estimated at $3 million and the local financing is proposed to be met with the issuance of utility revenue bonds. The obligation will be paid off through earnings of the utility, and rates charged to the user will have to be increased substantially.
To delay the program will increase the cost because of rising costs of labor and materials; no part of the "package" can be eliminated or delayed without causing a higher cost for the same work in the future; and pollution control regulations may be expected to become even stronger in the future, D'Amour said.

Silent Majority Organizes 'SAM'
GWINN — The name is "SAM."
The first chapter of what is hoped will be a growing organization of the "Silent American Majority" was organized at a meeting of 40 area residents here.
Robert M. Syrja, veterans of foreign wars post commander, who initiated the movement, said the new group plans a public program to counteract demonstrations by the Vietnam moratorium committee this week.
The Gwinn unit of SAM also will send letters to other VFW posts requesting them to take the lead in organizing similar chapters, and pledges of support for the United States role in Vietnam will be sent to the president and members of congress.

WHERE DO YOU STAND?
The Vietnam Moratorium Committee Movement on October 15 actually achieved one purpose. The Hanoi delegates to the Paris peace talks have definitely decided to lean back and wait, for to them it appears that America is splitting at the seams.
Now, they eagerly look forward to November 15 and hope for an even wider split at which time their bargaining position will have become greater as misguided pacifists swell the ranks of the moratorium crowds.
The demonstrators are to be blamed but so are you Mr. Silent American, because you haven't gotten off the fence yet.
The so-called "pacifists" are advocating peace at any price.

New Jail Urged For Dickinson

IRON MOUNTAIN — Dickinson county has again been warned by the state to replace its 73 year old condemned jail or have it closed.
The jail was condemned by the Michigan corrections commission in 1956 as "unfit for human occupancy." A condemnation suit against the county was dropped after repairs were made.
In recent years, however, the county has been warned repeatedly to replace the jail. State Jail Inspector Robert J. Russell asked the county board to determine when the new jail would be constructed.

Oulette stressed more membership in the American Legion then asked the more than 150 attending to fly their flags, keep their headlights on while driving and firmly back President Nixon in these trying times.
"The only way we are going to get a 'just' peace in this conflict is to back the president all the way until some settlement is reached," Oulette told the group.

Country Club Moves To Build Clubhouse

Members of the Escanaba Country Club took the first step toward a new clubhouse Tuesday night at the club's annual meeting at the Elks Club.

By unanimous vote of the members attending the meeting, the Board of Directors was ordered to appoint a Building Committee within 30 days to obtain building and financing for a new facility.

The members also voted to amend the bylaws of the club to increase the value of a share of stock from $25 to $175, payable $50 per year for three years, and to reduce the number of directors from 12 to six.

The change in value of the club's stock will mean that each family will be "assessed" $100 per year for the next three years on the basis of two shares of stock per family. New members entering in the club will be required to purchase stock at the new value.

Policy of the club to buy back stock at 80 per cent of the value of the stock in event a member leaves the club will continue.

Merger Is Off

The Board of Directors of the Country Club had been exploring the possibility of a merger with the Escanaba Elks Club for the purpose of building a new clubhouse to serve both organizations. The memberships of both local organizations had approved the merger, but Elks Grand Lodge officials turned down the proposed arrangements, it was reported at the meeting.

The Country Club presently has over 300 members and the boost in the stock value over the three-year period is expected to net about $90,000 to be directed toward the new clubhouse.

Outgoing President Emory Pellant described the present clubhouse as totally inadequate to meet the needs of the club. He said, however, that the golf course is one of the best in the upper midwest.

Swimming Pool?

Financially, the club is nearly debt free with only $10,500 remaining to be paid on the fairway watering system installed in the early 1960s. According to the financial statement presented to the members by the Board, the club's operations this year realized a profit of over $12,000.

A new building would include modern kitchen, dining and bar facilities for social activities; locker and shower rooms for men and women; a new shop for the club's golf professional; storage space for golf clubs, carts and club equipment and probably a swimming pool. Year-around operation of the facility was indicated.

Although no specific plans have been developed, it is anticipated that the new clubhouse would be constructed on the present site overlooking the 9th green of the golf course with the present clubhouse and pro shop buildings being torn down. A paved parking lot would be included in the overall site development to eliminate the dust problem which develops in summers now with heavy traffic in the graveled lot.

The Building Committee, which will be appointed by the Board of Directors, will be directed to have a report on building plans before the 1970 golf season opens. Hope was expressed at the meeting that construction could be started early next spring.

Board Anticipates Reducing Big Deficit

The Escanaba Area School Board was presented with an updated anticipated income during its meeting last night at the Ford River School.

The updated income showed the Area Schools eliminating $62,717 of debt by the end of the 1969-70 fiscal school year.

Anticipated 1969-70 income amounted to $2,978,327. This amount is the total income collected from the following sources: $1,362,840 from local revenue; $1,531,930 from State Aid; $72,557 from Federal Aid; and $11,000 from the Mott Foundation for the Community School Program.

The total adopted budget for the 1969-70 school year is $2,915,610. This figure deducted from the anticipated income leaves a balance of $62,717. The 1968-69 deficit was $67,097, which means the Board anticipates an estimated 1969-70 deficit of $4,380.

Pilot Program

The Board gave official approval to the Community School Pilot Program at the Wells and Soo Hill Schools for a six week period. At the end of six weeks the program will be evaluated by Steve Story, community school director, and if successful, he is expected to open the program in other area schools. "So far participation has been excellent," Story told the Board.

Superintendent Luther Barrett informed the Board that the district can receive up to $10,000 towards the salary of the community school director. "However, this amount cannot exceed 2/3 of the total salary," Barrett said. Application for the State money will be made and the Board is expected to qualify. "We should count our blessings. After all, it's more than we expected," said Board member Ronald Lankford regarding the possible funds available.

Tax Bills Show Rise Of $4.52

Voters of the Escanaba Area Public School district last year approved additional millage to meet school operating costs, and this increase will be noted in the county-school tax bills that will be in the mail Dec. 10.

Escanaba City Assessor Charles Schmidt said that he has received a number of inquiries about the amount of the tax bills and when county and school taxes are payable.

The total tax rate for the 1969 county and school bill is $34.04, which is $4.52 higher than last year, and slightly under the $4.90 per $1,000 assessed valuation approved by the voters for school operations.

The county and school tax bill will be broken down as follows:

County	$5.20
Community College	$2.50
Area School District	21.10
School Debt	4.13
Intermediate District	1.11
Total	$34.04

The bills will be mailed out by the city on Dec. 10 and will be due and payable when received.

Conduct Survey For Rest Center

The Board of Directors of the Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce accepted three new members at its meeting at the Chamber building Monday. They are Don M. Pearce, appraiser and real estate consultant; Richer Auto Electric Company, assigned to James Richer; and Skinny's Bar, assigned to Edward A. Gosselin. The board also acknowledged increased membership support from Gafner Automotive and Machine, Inc., assigned to Thomas Gafner; and Goodman Division, Calumet & Hecla, Inc., assigned to Stanley Gremban and Henry Van Brussel.

President Thomas Straebel said committee chairmen and committeemen will be announced shortly.

Manager Walter Lewke said the Downtown Development Committee had presented a progress report on the proposed rest center at 11th and Ludington Street to the Escanaba City Council. A subcommittee is in the process of surveying the retail segment of Escanaba business as it relates to the total economy of the community, which will be completed within a week or 10 days, and should be able to finalize its proposal shortly thereafter.

Copies of the new Escanaba tourist folder with insert and Delta County folder were distributed to the Board. Fifty thousand of each have been printed and local Boy Scouts will assemble the Escanaba folder to have them available for the 1970 tourist season and for distribution at the mid-west travel shows. The Delta County folder was authorized by the Delta County Board of Supervisors.

Lewke reported that a committee discussed the possibility of a Snowmobile Regatta for Escanaba for 1970 and agreed that it was too late to plan a sanctioned event for this winter. They plan to start early to make arrangements for the 1971 season.

President Straebel thanked the members of the Board of Directors who were at the airport for the inaugural flight of jet service by North Central's DC-9 Sunday, Oct. 26. The president presented a box of Saykly's candies to each member of the inaugural flight crew on behalf of the Chamber.

Straebel noted that Trans-Michigan Airlines is now operating daily, providing service from Marquette and Escanaba to Detroit and Lansing.

Lewke reported that the Senior Citizens Committee heard Jean Worth, public relations consultant for Mead Corp., and Lyle LeCaptain, county juvenile officer, at recent meetings.

The Retail Division has finalized its Christmas Promotion program, with the formal opening set for Friday, Nov. 28, the day after Thanksgiving. Clairmont Transfer will provide Santa's conveyance for the 12 o'clock parade. The State Bank of Escanaba will sponsor the children's movie at the Delft Theatre, the First National Bank and Trust Company will provide balloons and Northern Michigan National Bank, candy canes to be given by Santa to children at Santa headquarters.

George Miller and Mrs. Carrie Larson are cochairmen of the Christmas Promotion Committee. Don Breault, a member of the committee, has announced night shopping hours for the merchants.

A license to Save promotion was scheduled by the Retail Division on Wednesday, Nov. 12, with a 30-30 deer rifle to be awarded.

Director Gary Barton attended the testimonial dinner honoring John De Chantal at which time he presented a Certificate of Appreciation from members of the Board of Directors and the members of the Chamber to De Chantal for his cooperation and service as manager of the Escanaba City Band.

Highway Error

Football coaches often tell their teams that "breaks don't happen, they are made."

The reference, of course, is to those key fumbles, pass interceptions and mistakes by one team which prove to the advantage of the other. The message of the coach is that the aggressive team, the hard-hitting team, forces the other into those key mistakes which often change the result of the game.

The same statement might be made about automobile accidents. They don't happen. They are made. But the result instead of changing the score of the game often means life or death for the participants.

Some of the accidents are caused by mechanical problems, some by human error and others by highway design. Most of them could be prevented.

One of those happened Saturday morning on U. S. 2 near the top of the Whitefish Hill east of Rapid River. A late model sedan was east-bound on the highway and attempted to make a left turn onto County Rd. 509 which angles into U. S. 2 near the top of the hill. Westbound at the same time was a large tank truck. The car and truck collided, spinning the car around several times and into another truck which had been following the car, State Police reported. Three men in the car were injured. Both truck drivers escaped unhurt.

While newspaper and radio accounts of the accident listed details of the accident — the time, the place and the resulting injuries — the cause of the accident went unmentioned, as is the case in reports of most accidents. Because of the possibility of litigation resulting from accidents, the news media try to stay away from fixing blame, leaving that instead to the courts.

In this particular accident, however, at least part of the blame must be attributed to the highway. It's dangerous.

County Rd. 509, the road which leads off U. S. 2 and runs parallel to the Whitefish River, angles into the highway near the top of the hill. A driver making a left turn onto the road — particularly when traffic is closing in from behind — is taking his life into his hands. Visibility over the crest of the hill is limited, providing only a few seconds warning of an approaching car.

The slightest delay or misjudgment in making that turn could be fatal.

In today's highway engineering, intersections of that type — on a curve near the top of a hill — aren't allowed. Engineers go to great pains to avoid crossing traffic, building cloverleaf after cloverleaf to insure that vehicles don't come in direct conflict and drivers don't have to make life-or-death decisions.

This is one of the reasons that modernization of U. S. 2 is so critical to the Upper Peninsula.

Besides the uneven roadbed, which in itself causes its share of accidents, there are dangerous intersections spotted throughout its run from St. Ignace to Ironwood. County Rd. 509 is just one of them.

Accidents, of course, can happen at the safest of intersections. A little too much speed, a few too many "nightcaps," any mistake can be fatal.

Highways, however, shouldn't help those accidents happen. The sooner the problems are eliminated, the better it will be.

Pure Democracy?

For years the New Republic magazine has been a voice of American liberalism.

So when the New Republic offers a defense of the Electoral College, as it did in a recent issue, perhaps the apostles of electing the president by popular vote will pause long enough to listen.

The magazine asserts that the campaign against the Electoral College, already successful in the House of Representatives, is "powered by two engines: fear and ideology."

The fear is that the Electoral College may inflate the importance of third-party or Wallace-type candidacies. "These fears may be a trifle exaggerated," the magazine argues, "but they are nonetheless justified. Yet they do not justify abolishing the Electoral College."

Instead, the publication believes this fault can be corrected by a number of relatively minor reforms.

The ideology the New Republic speaks of is "pure majoritarianism." It is the proposition that any simple majority which asserts itself is entitled to prevail, regardless of other considerations. Real reforms, the magazine says, "do not commend themselves to advocates of popular election . . . because practical worries about the workings of the Electoral College are, after all, a secondary matter to them. Their position is essentially ideological . . ."

The New Republic recognizes a different meaning in American political experience. Noting that neither the Senate nor the Supreme Court conform to the requirements of pure democracy, just as the Electoral College does not, the magazine says: "In truth these institutions and devices tell us that throughout our history we have perceived other values in government than its reflection of simple majorities of the moment, which are in any event not easy to find and may be whipped up on demand."

The American system does, in fact, respond to the popular will. But as the New Republic observes, it has institutions of restraint which seek to detect whether the clamor of the moment is actually the popular will.

In this time of tumult, we would do well to keep them.

Nixon Turns Away From Utopian Goals

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
President Richard M. Nixon's speech on Latin America signalled one more turn from the Utopian aspirations which have plagued U. S. southward-looking foreign policy ever since the liberal ideologues became the dominant voice in the State Department.

On paper the Alliance for Progress, set in motion by President John F. Kennedy, sounded great; we would not deal with military dictators, we would be lavish in government-to-government aid to the "good guys," etc., etc.

But the fact is that the Latin American nations, as Nelson Rockefeller has recognized, have many different heritages; they cannot be dealt with as if they were a psychological monolith. Some have military dictatorships that are sincerely committed to the restoration of constitutional government; others have "Nasserite" regimes; others have democracies that are doing their best to promote socialism; others manifestly hope to become middle class republics.

In virtually all cases the Latins have problems of their own which they must solve by their own ingenuity. For a time everybody was expressing great hopes for "common market" solutions, pointing to the success of the Central American common market to prove their case. Then came the 100-hour war between El Salvador and Honduras, miscalled the "football war" because football riots had provided the excuse to fight over the deeper problems created by population pressures.

Both countries had grievances that had outpaced peaceful adjudication.

El Salvador, with its 11,000 square miles, is the smallest nation in the hemisphere, but, next to Haiti, it is the most heavily populated, with 3.5 million people trying to make a living in a narrow space. Thirty years ago, Salvadorians, recruited by the United Fruit Company, started moving into Honduras, which has six times the area of El Salvador and a population of only two million.

There have been border incidents. Not long ago a Salvadorian patrol of 49 men pursued a bandit, accused of murdering several people, into Honduras. The Honduran army captured the Salvadorians and jailed them for more than a year while the Salvadorian press yelled "Caramba!" for their release.

Then the nationalist agrarian reform, depriving all non-Hondurans of farmlands. Salvadorians who had lived in Honduras for many years started streaming back home.

Gen. Fidel Sanchez Hernandez, the President of El Salvador, would have had to abdicate if he had not mounted an Israeli-type blitz, using all four of El Salvador's Mustangs and a few private planes, on Honduran air bases.

During the 100 hours of the war, which started while the U. S. was watching the Apollo 11 moon landing, the Salvadorian army captured 14 Honduran cities and villages, killing 1800 Hondurans and losing 700 of their own men. The war was stopped by the Organization of American States once Apollo 11 had retreated from the headlines. The OAS is valuable precisely because it can mediate in military crises. But when you have killed a common market, what do you do? Honduras won't let Salvadorian goods move over the Inter-American Highway to Costa Rica and Nicaragua or into Honduras itself. A great experiment has come to at least a temporary end.

The problem, like all such problems, is unique. But El Salvador is solving it on its own unique terms. Its government has responded by creating a ferry for roll-on, roll-off trucks going from the Salvadorian port of Acajutla to the Nicaraguan port of Corinto on the Pacific.

Unable to sell its shoes (reputedly the best in Latin America), its textiles and its cotton in Honduras, the country has arranged to market its surpluses in West Germany, in Japan and in some major Latin American countries. And, with the help of the Inter-American Development Bank, the Salvadorians are enlarging their fleet of 73 modern shrimp boats, which already account for a catch that keeps Miami, New Orleans, and New York plentifully supplied with a delicacy.

New Book Is Guide To Local Historians

By CHARLES M. HARPER
Director, State Library
Upper Peninsula Branch

In September 1967, eight distinguished American scholars met in Albany, N. Y. to speak at the Local History Enrichment Program.

The program was meant to broaden the horizons of New York State local historians and to help them understand the methods of historical scholarship. (New York State law requires cities, towns, villages, and counties to appoint local historians to collect and make available historical information about their communities). The meeting brought, professional scholars and local historians together and served to emphasize the importance of local history.

The scholars were Norman A. Graebner, Constance M. Green, Thomas C. Cochran, Paul W. Gales, Clinton Rossiter, Dewey W. Grantham, Arthur S. Link, and David A. Shannon. They presented four papers: Importance and Meaning of History, Changes in the Community, Economic Changes and Changing Agriculture; and a panel discussion about contemporary history.

Though the subjects of the papers varied, each speaker stressed his topic's importance to local historians, how the subject could help him understand the development of his community, how to approach the subject and the kinds of source materials to use.

Mrs. Constance M. Green's paper, Changes in the Community, is of special interest since it discusses history at the local level. A Pulitzer Prize winner in 1963, for her book, Washington, Village and Capital, 1800-1878, Mrs. Green's interests are urban history and

Under the stress of economic difficulty the Salvadorian government has raised some $15 million in development capital by selling "Bonds of National Dignity" at $2 and $20 each.

This response took place before Nixon's speech. It offers a most tangible proof that the Latinos don't have to wait for Utopia on any magic made-in-the-U. S. A. terms in order to get moving into the future.

MONEY IN LITTER

NEW YORK (AP)—A litterbug in Maine has found a way to make littering self-liquidating.

Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of Keep America Beautiful, Inc., reports that a litterbug caught in Maine tossing away an empty soft drink bottle was fined $20. This litterbug, with the help of friends, picked up enough returnable bottles along the roadside to pay the fine with the deposit refunds.

That amounts to about 1,000 bottles with the usual two-cent deposit.

"The case, aside from revealing a litterbug's ingenuity, demonstrates that deposits no longer deter people from littering with returnable beer and soft drink bottles in this age of affluence," Mr. Seed concluded.

community studies. In her paper, she stresses the importance of studying the community as it changes.

In studying a community, the historian should be interested in the people, the physical environment and the institutions created to serve the community. Finding the answers to questions such as how did people earn their livings, how old were they, where did they come from, what kinds of houses did they live in, and what kinds of churches, schools, and libraries did they develop to serve them, can contribute to an understanding of one's community.

Many sources are available to answer these questions. U. S. Census records, local tax, probate, land and health records, the registry of deeds, church records, newspapers, and private correspondence will be the most important sources.

Once the material is collected, what should be done with it? Mrs. Green suggests dividing the topic into manageable periods. Collect all the material on one period, then write it up. Never wait until all your research is done to begin writing, because a good historian is never finished.

An 88 page report of the Conference, entitled "The Challenge of Local History," is available free from the New York State Library, Gifts and Exchange Office, Albany, New York, 12224. It includes the texts of the papers and panel discussion, a brief bibliography of books on historical research and writing and short biographies of the contributors. It should be invaluable to any local historical society.

Copies are available for loan from the U. P. Branch of the State Library, 413 Ludington St., Escanaba, Mich., 49829.

The bidding:

Opening lead—king of spades. Expert players don't always play expertly. They goof, like everyone else does, but the big difference is that they goof less often than ordinary mortals. Furthermore — and this part is perhaps unfair — they get much more publicity for their bad bids and plays than they do for their good ones.

Take this hand played in an intercity match between Los Angeles and Houston. We won't name names, 'cause that's not cricket; we'll only tell what happened.

With Houston North-South and Los Angeles East-West, the bidding went as shown. The slam was certainly sound enough, but six diamonds would have been a far better contract. West led the king of spades, East playing the four, and continued with the ace, which South ruffed. Declarer drew trumps and claimed the balance, chalking up 1,210 points for making six hearts doubled.

Of course, he should have been defeated. West had two chances to beat the contract and muffed them both.

First of all, West should have led a diamond originally. East, the player not on lead, had doubled six hearts which, according to the slam-doubling convention, called for an unusual lead. The only side suit that North-South had bid was diamonds, and this was obviously the unusual lead East was asking for.

Had West led a diamond, East would have ruffed, returned a spade, and gotten another ruff to defeat the slam two tricks — 300 points.

But even after West had led the king of spades, he could still have saved the day by shifting to a diamond. Instead, he ignored East's low spade play on the king — which clearly directed West to stop playing spades — and continued the suit. After that, it was curtains.

The moral is that bridge is a partnership game and you shouldn't ignore storm signals transmitted by partner. Once, maybe there's some excuse for, but twice, never!

TESTS LIE AHEAD

On this first anniversary of last year's Presidential election I am reminded again of the support that you and others gave to my candidacy. I deeply appreciate that expression of trust, and the part that you played in the success of our efforts last year.

As we are all aware, the problems facing the country — both domestically and internationally — grow in scope and complexity with each passing year. In these first months of the new Administration, I think we have made a solid beginning toward bringing these problems under control. We have overhauled the machinery of government. We have pressed ahead with a carefully formulated program to achieve peace in Vietnam. We have developed new foreign policy approaches which strengthen the structure of peace and reduce the likelihood of U. S. involvement in another such conflict. We have proposed a broad and bold new set of domestic programs designed specifically for the needs of the 1970s.

All this, of course, is prologue. America's greatest tests lie ahead. I remain convinced that by what we do in these next few years, our generation of Americans can do more toward expanding human opportunity than any generation before. It is in this spirit and with this hope — and with gratitude to you — that I will mark the anniversary of last year's victory. I shall do all in my power to ensure that the confidence you gave me will not have been misplaced.

Ann Landers
Divorcees Will Have To Paddle Own Canoe

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl and my brother is 15. Please help us.

Our two older sisters both got divorces last year. First, Luella came home with her 2-year-old boy. Susan moved in the following month with her year-old daughter. The house is big and there is an awful lot of work, especially with the two kids. Luella and Susan have always been a couple of slob and marriage didn't improve them any. My mother has given up on getting them to do anything. She says it is easier to do it herself. During the summer, my brother and I tried to give Mom a hand but since school has started, we can't help her much.

This morning Dad got mad and announced he is putting the house up for sale. He says we are moving into an apartment and the divorcees will have to make it on their own. He says he will not allow Mom to be worked to death any longer. This means my brother and I will have to change schools and leave the kids we grew up with. We think it is unfair. Please come to the rescue. — Miss 16 and Mr. 15.

Dear Miss and Mr.: It is indeed unfair and I hope your Dad reconsiders. You and your brother should not be penalized because of your lazy sisters. Selling the house to get rid of the slob is like using an atom bomb to get rid of mosquitoes. There are safer and saner methods — like insisting that the girls shape up or ship out.

Dear Ann Landers: Our brilliant, handsome son is now enrolled in a small town, mid-western college, thanks to his father's bullheadedness. Sr. was determined that Jr. would go to Harvard or Yale and he asked everyone he knew to write letters to the presidents and deans. Sr. boasted he had carbons of 37 letters.

Jr. didn't make either Harvard or Yale because his pushy father overdid it. Print this please as a warning to other dads to lay off. — Stamford

Dear Stam: The kind of pressure you describe is usually ignored, so it's unfair to assume that your husband ruined the boy's chances. And cheer up, Mom. Jr. might be better off in that small town college than he would have been in all that Ivy.

Dear Ann Landers: When I read the letter from the man who said all wives should be shot when they reach 40 years of age, I got so mad I actually broke out in a rash. I could have kissed you when you suggested that he save the last bullet for himself.

Please tell that rock-headed baboon there's nothing wrong with a 40-year-old woman that a 31-year-old man can't cure. I know because I am 44 and I've been blissfully married for five years to a beautiful guy who is 13 years my junior. — Oke-La-Homa

Dear Oke: Thanks for the assist. Take that and that and that you rock-headed baboon! And do read on!

Dear Ann Landers: What are the chances for happiness when the woman is 54 and the man is 39? I am a young 54, in excellent health and in love for the very first time. We are of the same nationality, same religious background and share the same interests. But the age difference bothers me. What do you say? — M. C. G.

Dear M.: From the way my mail has been running, the man might be too old for you! I say good luck.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Voice-Picture Communication Near, Claim

EAST LANSING (AP) — Instantaneous voice-picture communication between two people anywhere in the world is predicted by a telephone executive.

George Voorhis, Lansing area manager for Michigan Bell Telephone Co., made the forecast in a seminar for certified travel counselors continuing through today at Michigan State University.

"I can envision the day when every child, at birth, will be assigned a number," Voorhis said. "When he is old enough to comprehend and use telephone equipment, he will be given a watchlike device with little buttons on one side and a screen on the other.

"He will be able to talk to anyone in the world at any time he wishes," Voorhis continued. "He will simply pulse the keys of the number of a friend and almost instantaneously hear the voice and see the face of the person on the screen in color and three dimensions.

"If the day ever comes when, upon dialing his friend's number, he neither sees him or hears him, he can assume that his friend is dead."

Voorhis told the travel agents that most travel in the future will be for pleasure.

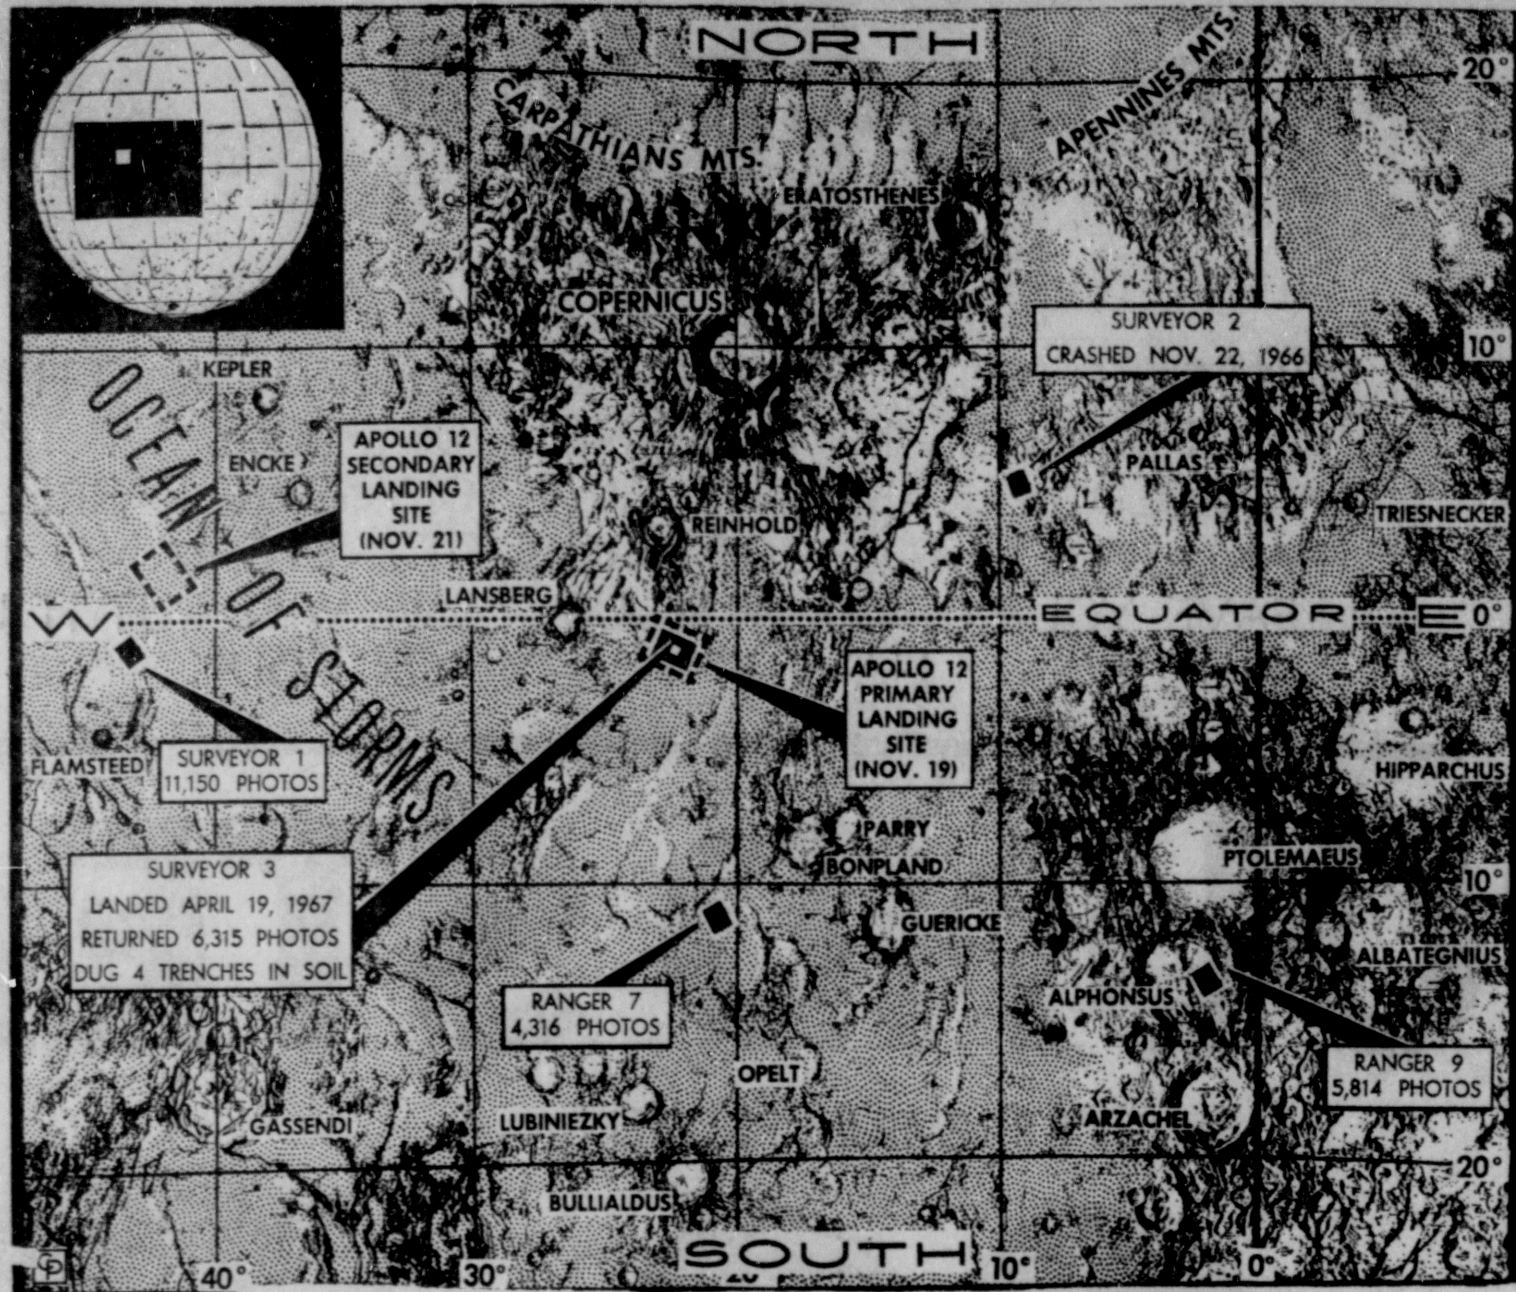

"Picture-phonics may make most business travel obsolete," he observed. "Why send a man to New York on a three-day buying trip when he can talk, view and price by picture telephone?"

Negro Colleges Awarded Grants

CHICAGO (AP) — Grants totaling more than $500,000 to two public Negro colleges and a group formed to help such schools were announced Tuesday by the Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich.

The Office for Advancement of Public Negro Colleges of the National Association of State Universities and Land-grant Colleges received $130,000.

This office, founded in 1968, helps 34 public Negro schools solicit funds from business and foundations.

Probe Under Way To Link Material With Lost Plane

ONTONAGON (AP) — Authorities at Ontonagon are investigating the possibility that a bone and pieces of clothing are remains of a research plane which disappeared over Lake Superior about a year ago.

Discovered this weekend, Ontonagon County Sheriff Donald Powelson revealed Tuesday, were the bone, a brown canvas shoe and a black glove.

A twin-engine plane owned by the National Center for Atmospheric Research of Boulder, Colo., disappeared Oct. 23, 1968 while conducting research over Lake Superior near Ontonagon. There were three men aboard.

50 Jobless Will Receive Training, 20 At Houghton

LANSING (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department has announced 30 jobless or underemployed persons in Saginaw and 20 in Houghton will receive classroom training in two separate projects. The Ford Forestry Center at Houghton will train 20 saw filers through use of a $58,005 federal grant.

ported since to indicate that the rate is any lower now.

If the wholesale price index is an indication, there will be no appreciable dip in the rate of inflation this year. In fact, it may be well into next year before real declines begin to show.

In part, the consumer is responsible for his plight. Fortified with good wages, some money in the bank and an access to credit that was unknown in any other inflationary period, he continues to demand goods and put upward pressure on prices.

Personality Changes

The consumer's personality has also changed markedly since World War II. Year by year he has tested his ability to handle credit. The absence of cash, he has learned, need not be a deterrent to fulfilling desires immediately.

As some bankers have pointed out, this has led to the present "now" generation, in which some funds that once would have gone into the bank to provide future security are, instead, spent immediately.

Spending Pressure

So strong has been the spending pressure by both consumers and business that three widely respected economic authorities suggested this week a stronger

Nixon's Economy Plan Could Have Drawbacks

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have now received notice that they are entering what could be the really painful period of the Nixon administration's attempt to put the economy back on a more stable, less inflated footing.

More Unemployment?

The situation is this: Evidence is accumulating that the rate of economic expansion is slowing, bringing with it more unemployment, less overtime and in some businesses the postponement of pay raises. Little evidence has accumulated, however, to indicate that prices are about to fall.

The squeeze is on. While the ability to buy will tend to increase slowly, the rate of price increases is likely to continue strong for months to come.

The wholesale price index for October surged to 114 from 113.6 a month earlier, indicating that retail prices, which generally reflect wholesale price changes, will be under strong pressure for several months.

Prices Rising

This is bad news indeed, for consumer prices already have been rising very sharply. In September, increases were at an annual rate of 6 per cent, and little evidence has been re-

MOON TRIP "BRAIN" — Astronauts on the Apollo 12 Moon mission can rely on this complex electronic "brain," called an "erasable memory stack." It stores flight plan data for the spacecraft's guidance computer. As the flight plan is changed, old information stored in it is erased and new data is inserted. On the Apollo 11 Moon mission it was used for corrections in mid-course and on the moon landing and takeoff. It's an RCA development.

Editor Claims Dissent Having Impact On Nixon

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon knows there is a "large, significant group" in the United States which opposes his Vietnam policies and has been affected by their efforts, a Detroit editor said Tuesday.

Frank Angelo, managing editor of the Detroit Free Press, said the timing of Nixon's Vietnam speech less than three weeks after the antiwar moratorium showed more concern with dissent than White House statements have indicated.

"I think the speech itself indicated that Moratorium Day has had some impact on Nixon," Angelo said in an interview. "I don't think any man could help but be affected."

But Angelo said the President, like the press in America, is trying to keep dissent and dissent in proper perspective.

The Detroit editor is incoming president of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic society having its annual convention in San Diego this week.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Hindu, a daily newspaper published in tropical Madras where temperatures rarely fall below 70, ran a diagram showing motorists how to start their cars in case heavy snow should cause wet distributors.

Band Boosters Set Bake Sale

The Gladstone Band Boosters will sponsor a bake sale at Eutch's Hardware Saturday from noon to 5 p. m. This will be the first activity of the school year for the Band Boosters.

Over the years, interested parents of Sixth Grade Band, Junior and Senior Bands have worked together to make possible many fine trips for the band members. They have also purchased new musical instruments which have added to the versatility of the various band groups.

This year a complete recording system is being installed which will make it possible for the band to make its own records. It will provide two permanent speakers in the band room and a turntable to play records.

The band already has a tape recorder which will also be used to enable the bands to hear their own music which will be a great teaching supplement for further developing the students musical talents. Band members will also be able to cut their own records and to offer them for sale.

In order to continue to support the students the Boosters hope that all parents who have children in any of these bands will become members of the Band Boosters. Dues may be paid to Mrs. Milburn Nolan, president, or to Paul Cowen, band director.

Future projects for the Band Boosters will include coat check at all home basketball games, the band banquet on Feb. 7 and the sale of birthday calendars in the spring.

GLADSTONE City Manager Henrikson Resigns; Keaton Named

Howard Keaton

City Manager H. J. Henrikson submitted his letter of resignation, effective Dec. 31, to the city commission Monday evening. Henrikson will retire after 45 years of service with the city and will be succeeded by Howard Keaton, present assistant city manager.

Mayor Arne Anderson presented an award of honor from the State Health Department to Martin Caldwell for the exemplary safety record maintained at the city water plant since 1966. The commission went on record to commend the department personnel for their fine record.

The low bid of Paquin and Sons, Sand and Gravel Co. for crushed gravel was accepted over the bid from McMann Brothers, of Iron River.

Voting Machine Eyed

The possibility of installing voting machines was discussed and bids will be taken to determine the cost of changing the system before definite action is taken. Henrikson said six or seven machines would probably be needed to service the 2,385 registered voters in the city.

A petition to abandon the alley between Minneapolis Ave. and Lake Shore Drive west of 14th street was read. Signatures from a majority of property owners involved were noted and the petition will be turned over to the Planning Commission for study. If the abandonment is approved, the alley way will revert to the property owners but the city would require an easement to permit them to service utilities in the area.

Cameron Cited

Donald Grenfell, 217 S. 10th St., a teacher at the high school presented petitions signed by approximately 500 residents requesting that 10th St. be designated as Cameron Avenue in honor of the late Wallace Cameron for his long and devoted service to the community.

Mayor Anderson and Commissioner George Young expressed their opinions that a facility at the school might be a better place to honor Mr.

Cameron, but since no action was taken by the school, Gren-fell said the interested group felt that the street bordering the school might be appropriate. The city attorney was instructed to draw an ordinance to permit this change should the commission take positive action in the future.

A bill for supervisory work done at the power plant by John Cox during the inspection and repairs on the two turbines was received and will be paid after a special meeting to discuss the work now in progress. The bill, in the amount of $5,160, is for labor and expenses while Cox was in Gladstone, and represents only partial payment of the project.

Bond Money Available

Henrikson told the commission Gladstone would receive $20,000 as their share of the $100 million recreation bond issue. He said he and Keaton had attended a meeting in Marquette last week with the Bureau of Natural Resource and that the city would be required to submit a priority list of recreation projects by April 1. One of the projects being considered is a fishing pier, near the Industrial Park. Other projects will be considered as they are received from the various clubs in the city.

In other business, the commission authorized Martin Caldwell and Dennis Aicher to attend Laboratory Training sessions at Kellogg Biology Station at Gull Lake at alternate times during January and February, and Keaton to attend the Waste Water Seminar at the University of Michigan on Dec. 2; authorized payments totaling $46,252 for work completed at the filtration plant; and approved a letter to Donald Pfothner, retiring football coach at Gladstone High School, for his many contributions to the athletic department and to the school.

Rezoning Topic

The public hearing on rezoning property adjacent to the Elderly Housing Project was postponed until the next regular meeting on Nov. 24.

William Artley, a member of the Marble Arms Union asked permission to hold meetings in the council chambers and the city attorney was asked to check a previous resolution stating only federally recognized non-profit organization should hold regular meetings in the city hall. A report on the resolution will be ready for the next meeting.

Events

Pioneers 4-H Club
The Gladstone Pioneers 4-H Club will hold a regular business meeting at the City Hall at 7 p. m. today.

Driver Training Unit In Use

The driver training simulator has arrived in Gladstone and will be in use for the next two weeks.

The simulator, a 16-seat unit will be used to train and re-train students in many aspects of driving. The training includes basic fundamentals as and will be used as a supplement to the regular driver training program.

The $35,000 simulator was obtained on a federal program through the cooperation of 10 community schools in the Upper Peninsula. Each school has the simulator on a two-week basis and it is then rotated to the next school.

It will be in operation all day and in the evenings, and anyone in the community who is interested in seeing it in operation may come in at any time.

Private Postal System Working, Making Money

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private postal system called IPSA, which handles third-class mail at lower cost than the U.S. Post Office, now is operating in 37 cities, making money, and expanding.

On parcel post hauls, the privately operated United Parcel Service is plying streets and highways with 20,000 of its own delivery vehicles and charging less on many intercity deliveries than Uncle Sam.

Go-Ahead Awaited
UPS is awaiting a final government go-ahead to extend its interstate service into nine more states, for a total of 46. It is growing because it claims—many business firms prefer it to the U.S. mails for reliability and predictability of service.

Air freight is a booming entry in the package-hauling industry and may get cheaper as bigger jets come along. Greyhound buses haul bundles as well as people. The venerable REA Express survives and thrives despite the decline of the railroads, and the yellow pages show a longer list each year of competing private local, regional and national express haulers—even though the U.S. parcel post itself is growing.

Carriers Watched
The private carriers are being watched with keen interest by supporters of President Nixon's proposal to reorganize the postal system into a business-type corporation.

That plan was blocked for this session by a 13 to 13 deadlock in the House Post Office Committee, but will return with greater urgency next year. Still pending, meantime, is a proposed postal rate increase to help avert a $1 billion postal deficit.

"We'll all be under one big corporation some day," predicts C. Wallace McPherson of Oklahoma City, an executive of the Independent Postal System of America, called IPSA.

What is IPSA? It is a company established 18 months ago in Oklahoma City which employs uniformed, bonded, full-time carriers to deliver third-class matter—advertising, or so-called "junk mail"—at a cost below the Post Office third-class rate.

The U.S. Post Office charges $38 per 1,000 for mailings of up to 250,000 such pieces a year, and $40 for each additional thousand. IPSA charges $33 per 1,000 for the saturation-type mailings.

Since it is forbidden by law to use residential mailboxes, IPSA hangs its deliveries on door-knobs in plastic bags. It pays the cost of the bags by selling advertising on them.

School children boarding buses in Oklahoma City are likely to be carrying their pencils and erasers in IPSA bags.

Franchised Operation
IPSA has franchised operators operation in St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., Buffalo, N.Y., Jackson, Miss., Little Rock, Ark., Toledo, Ohio, Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas, and some 30 other cities and towns. It has openings scheduled before the end of this year in Des Moines, Iowa, Phoenix, Ariz., Houston, Texas, and elsewhere.

The U.S. Post Office scoffs at IPSA as being a mere distributor of handbills. "A very, very insignificant matter," said one Post Office spokesman.

Another department official commented: "Considering the shortage of labor, I frankly don't think it is going to be around too long." Postal union leaders have attacked IPSA on grounds that only the government can legally carry mail, and have denounced the wearing of official-looking uniforms by IPSA's delivery men.

To such belittling IPSA replies that it has in hand applications for franchises from about 2,000 more towns and cities. And that it is now prepared—in Oklahoma City only, so far—to deliver addressed mail on a selective list basis.

Family Coffers Increased Due To 'Non-Money'

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The average American family actually earns about $4,000 a year more than its breadwinners believe. Trouble is — it's in non-money, explains a University of Michigan economist.

Housewives provide most of this added non-money income, says economic researcher Ismail Abdel-Hamid Sirageldin. "Do-it-yourself" activities around the home account for much of the rest.

The $4,000 also includes the value of time spent on volunteer work or educational activities, the rental value of owned homes, the value of transportation provided by the family car.

In his recently published article, "Non-Market Components of National Income," Sirageldin noted that various countries have different proportions of market and non-market production.

Such discrepancies make it misleading to compare one country's gross national production figures with those of another nation.

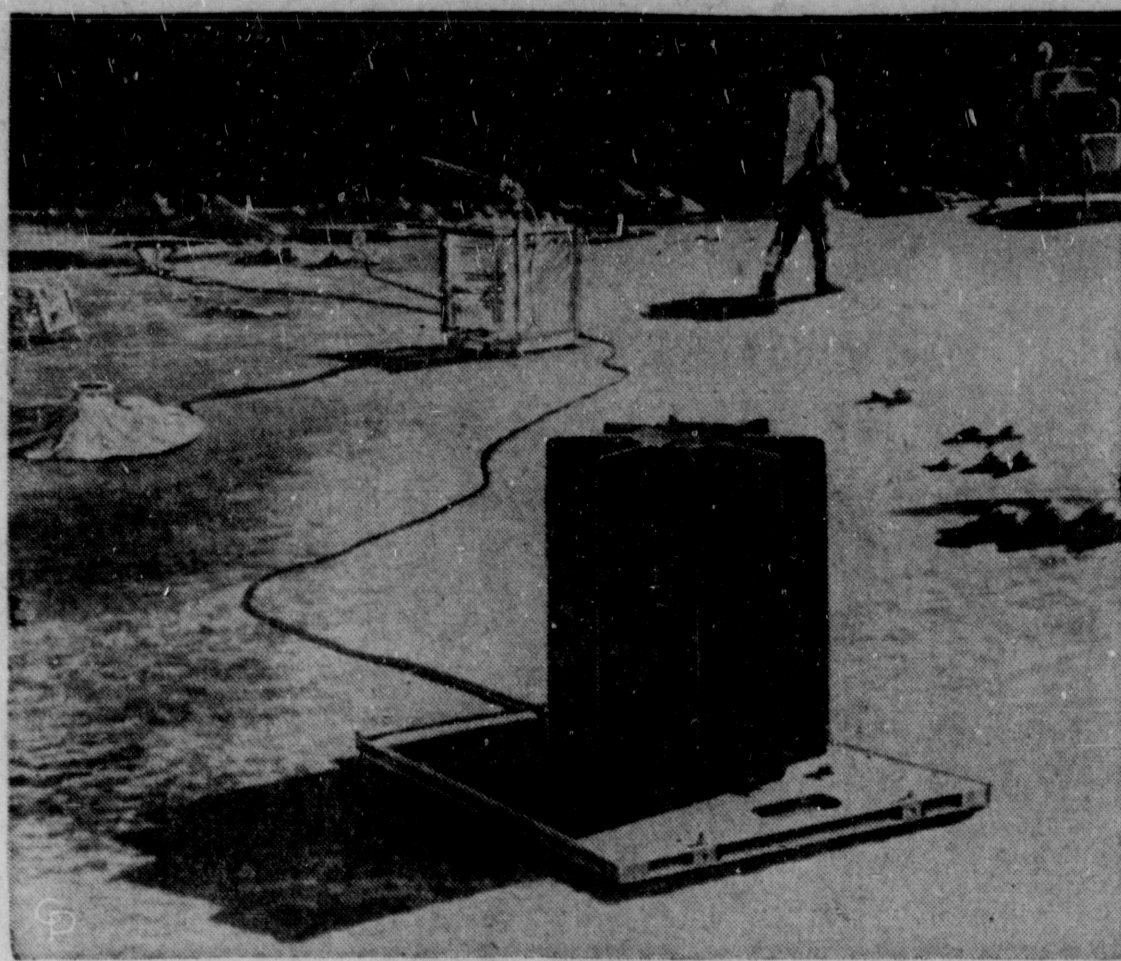

Sirageldin noted that work done by housewives is especially important to people with little cash income. People who earn less wages sometimes raise part of their own food, leading the economist to conclude that full income — non-money value as well as wages — is distributed more equally across the nation than is money income.

'Finn Power' New Peninsula Trend

HOUGHTON (AP) — "Finn Power" is drifting through Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

A couple of Houghton men ordered a bunch of bumper stickers emblazoned with the words "Finn Power," and the idea seems to be catching on. The promoters, who preferred to remain anonymous say the stickers are becoming common in the U. P. where many Finnish families settled.

The stickers are take-offs on the other current slogans: Black Power, Flower Power, Polish Power, etc.

Chigger Control May Have Caused Turkey 'Scare'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of turkeys found to contain heptachlor residue may have picked up the powerful pesticide from land treated for control of chiggers, according to Agriculture Department sources.

Chiggers, the same small mites which can cause humans to itch after working on lawns, are troublesome to turkey growers who want a nice, smooth bird to sell.

The department announced last Friday that 150,000 live turkeys and some four million pounds of turkey meat were held off the Thanksgiving market after heptachlor residue was found in some birds on Oct. 9 at a Minnesota processing plant.

Officials say all contaminated birds were traced to farms supplying Arkansas Valley Industries, Inc., headquartered in Little Rock. The department said the investigation would continue to determine how widespread the distribution has been. Officials said none of the contaminated birds had reached the retail market.

Yule Greetings Come Early For Ill Boy, 6

LANSING (AP) — "You have a nice, firm handshake," Gov. William Milliken told six-year-old Will Allen Caldwell of Detroit Tuesday, as the boy suffering from bone cancer, got a Christmas wish.

Hobbling on crutches, the boy met the governor once again.

The youth's parents, two brothers and a sister watched while he was given a red carpet welcome at the governor's executive office. The boy is being showered with toys in his daily Christmases this fall in case he should die before Dec. 25.

Several months ago, the boy seemed in the best of health when he briefly saw the governor on a routine tour. Since then, he lost a leg because of cancer.

The youngster was considered among the brightest and most active boys in his first grade class at Ruthruff Elementary School in Detroit. His parents said he had never had more than a cold.

He fell off his bicycle in late September and bruised his right leg. Three days later, the boy was hospitalized with a fever. Doctors said the bone tumor had probably been dormant and was activated by the fall.

The leg was removed. The father, Herbert Caldwell, said doctors at Children's Hospital in Detroit told him "there is no cure for bone cancer—that maybe five victims out of 1,000 live for a couple of years after it is detected. The rest seldom survive more than a few months."

The boy's doctor, however, said Tuesday that while the odds against recovery may be great, he did not rule it out as impossible.

"The hardest thing I ever had to do was to tell that little boy they were going to take off his leg. He was so brave, it broke my heart. He didn't shed a tear, but I did," said the father, a foreman at the Ford Motor Co. Rouge plant.

The boy told his father of his desire to meet Michigan's governor again. So he contacted Milliken's office.

"It was the least I could do, to spend time with him," the governor said.

The boy got up early Tuesday and opened some tinsel-wrapped presents brought by friends. Will allows his brothers and sisters to play with the new toys he receives daily. Their parents said they will get their presents Dec. 25.

After the long drive to Lansing, the youngster was too awe struck to speak to the governor at first. He smiled shyly as Milliken talked to him. His family waited in the background.

Milliken presented him a book on the backgrounds and history of Michigan. It was inscribed: "To my friend, Will Caldwell, with every warm wish for the future."

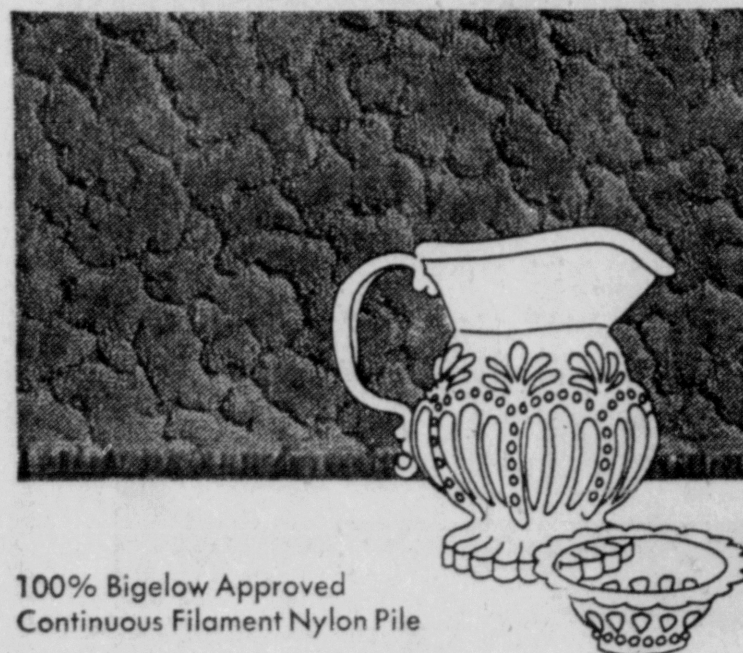

The governor said he hoped Will reads and enjoys it and so lets his brothers and sisters see it.

"I hope so too," the youngster said ever so softly.

Later Tuesday, the governor reflected: "Here was a little guy who lost a leg. He was fighting a tough and maybe a losing battle, and I didn't get the feeling he was depressed by it all."

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

GOLDEN RULES FOR GOOD SCHOOLS!

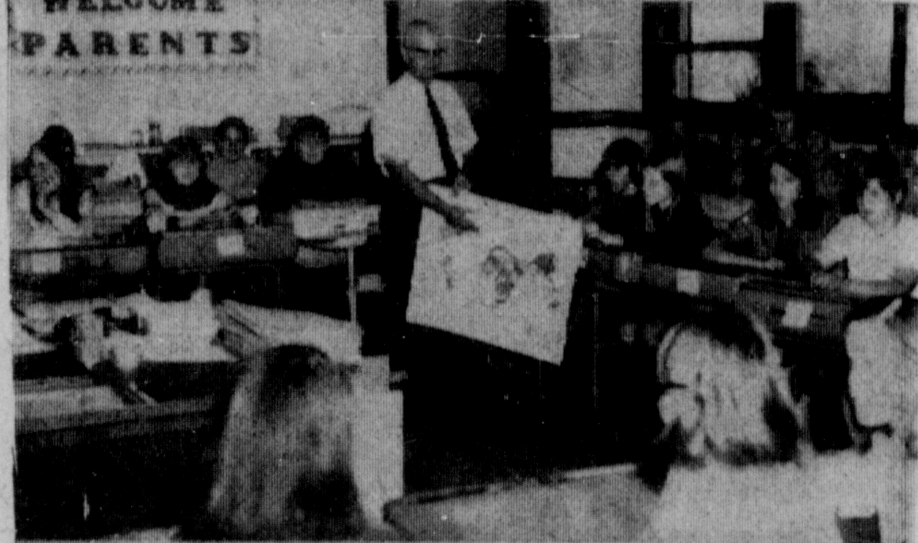

Don't forget — Off-the-cuff conclusions can be wrong! Please take care that your judgments of your school are based on complete and accurate information. Remember, too, these Golden Rules are from the National Education Association and conditions in our own community must also be taken into account.

Teachers make the school and their enthusiasm is quickly felt by the students in their classrooms. A Golden Rule for Good Schools states that the teachers should have at least bachelors degrees. It is also desirable for some to have or be working toward a masters degree. We have 186 classroom teachers, 121 have bachelors and 65 have masters degrees. 76% of our teachers have over 5 years experience; 50% have over 10 years experience. Teacher's salaries should compare favorably with income of others in the community with similar education and years of experience.

Well equipped Libraries at the higher school level and enough "tools of learning" in the audio-visual field are students of another Golden Rule for Good Schools. The Jr. High Library, pictured, here, has a good balanced supply of reference materials, dictionaries, current news magazines, journals, etc. Audio-visual "tools of learning" such as film strips, records, tapes, movies, etc., are available to all of the elementary and high school classroom teachers. The Library at the Jr. High is too small to meet the American Library Standards and when money is available, it will be remodeled and enlarged. One Librarian is employed at the Jr. High, two at the Sr. High.

Curriculum should be reviewed, says another Golden Rule for Good Schools... and often enough so it remains current with the changing needs of children and society. This classroom is part of an English pilot study underway in our district. English and Social Studies pilot programs are being conducted in several other classes this year, also. The Educational Planning Council works on curriculum. It is composed of 26 committees which represent each grade level and each secondary school subject area. The pilot studies are an outgrowth of the work of this council.

Golden Rules for Good Schools also apply to the school buildings... "a building which serves as 'home' for children many hours of each day should be safe, clean, comfortable and uncrowded. All of our schools are safe. Much time, effort and money are expended each school year to keep them clean and comfortable, and most of our buildings are relatively uncrowded. Th. Soo Hill School, is uncrowded this year, only because some of the children who would attend public school here, are being bussed to the old Jefferson, Wells School faces the same situation.

The art of the physician, pharmacist and barber were once practiced by one individual. In fact, the red and white of the barber-pole were intended to signify blood and bandages. With the passage of time and the increase of knowledge, each became a specialist in his own field.

Pharmacy today is a long way from the herbs and incantations of the middle ages. With each passing year and each new development, the pharmacist must spend more and more time on continuing education. To a specialist one must know his business and all its facets. That is why a prescription filled at GROOS DRUG STORE . . . is such a bargain. Our experienced pharmacists DO continue their training in every way possible.

Spurt Shooting Puts Pistons Over Lakers

By The Associated Press

Eddie Miles, Terry Dischinger and Jimmy Walker, shooting in spurts, led the Detroit Pistons to a 110-102 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night in National Basketball Association play.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday, New York beat San Francisco 116-103, Milwaukee mauled Boston 129-118, Atlanta ripped Philadelphia 124-107 and Chicago downed Seattle 106-100.

Miles hit 16 of his team-leading 24 points in the first half as the Pistons held a 33-25 first-quarter lead and a 57-54 intermission advantage.

The Lakers caught Detroit at 73-73 with five and one-half minutes remaining in the third period but Dischinger then went on a tear, dropping in 10 straight points as the Pistons raced to a 91-80 third-period edge.

With Mel Counts popping in baskets for Los Angeles in the final quarter, the Lakers crept within five points of Detroit at 97-92. But with 5:50 to go in the game, Walker hit for seven points in a row to lock the game up for the Pistons.

Dischinger, Otto Moore and Butch Kniwies each scored 16 for Detroit while Jerry West led the Laker attack with 24. West left the game early in the first quarter to have 10 stitches taken over his left eye after he fell. But he returned six minutes later and finished the game.

Now that they're past the crucial spot in their schedule, the New York Knickerbockers can relax again. They don't play San Francisco again until Jan. 7.

The Warriors are the only National Basketball Association team to solve the Knicks this season. And that came way back on Oct. 23. New York has won 10 straight since then, the latest a 116-103 revenge job on the Warriors Tuesday night.

The Knicks didn't exactly have a piece of cake against the Warriors. New York was down by 10 after the first period and five at halftime. But the rampaging Knicks took control in the third period and then won going away.

The victory gave New York a 15-1 record, one short of the all-time best NBA start ever. St. Louis was 16-1 in 1967.

Dave DeBusschere sparked the Knicks' late surge, scoring 10 of his 18 second-half points in the final period.

Jeff Mullins of the Warriors led all scorers with 30 points—only six in the second half. DeBusschere and Walt Frazier had 24 each for New York.

Flynn Robinson and Jon McGlocklin shredded Boston's defenses and Lew Alcindor dominated the boards and poured in 28 points as the Bucks beat the Celtics.

Robinson had 31 points and McGlocklin 26 while Alcindor forced the Celtics into foul trouble.

Atlanta, enjoying almost as hot a streak as the Knicks, knocked off Philadelphia with Lou Hudson and Joe Caldwell carrying most of the offensive load.

Hudson had 30 points and Caldwell 27 as the Hawks won their eighth straight and 11th in 14 starts this season. Bill Cunningham had 37 for the 76ers.

Jerry West led the Lakers with 24 despite taking 10 stitches when he suffered a cut over his left eye.

Tom Boerwinkle scored 12 points and pulled down 13 rebounds in the final quarter, helping Chicago past Seattle.

Chet Walker of the Bulls led all scorers with 34 points.

Veteran Team Back At Rock

ROCK — Basketball fortunes at Rock High School are looking better than they did at this same time one year ago, as six returning lettermen including four starters, are back under Coach Ken Dean.

Heading the list of returnees is 6 foot senior Tom Lippens, who scored 264 points and pulled down 216 rebounds last season. Other starters back include 5 foot 11 inch junior Tim Connors, 6 foot 3 inch senior Larry Koski and 6 foot senior Joe Vandamme.

Other lettermen back from last year's squad are Gary Brungreaver, a 5 foot 9 inch senior, and Jim Kaukola, a 5 foot 7 inch senior.

Also vying for a spot on the Little Giant roster are Ralph Honson, Tom Kossow, Tom Linjala, Richard Yanke, Tony VanDamme and Vic Bodanyi. VanDamme is a 6 foot 3 inch freshman and Bodanyi is a transfer student from Perkins.

Dean feels that the conference should be real strong this year, as most of the teams have a veteran squad returning. He feels Big Bay de Noc will be strong team along with Perkins and Eben.

The Little Giants play four of their six games at home before hitting the road for three games in January. Rock is also scheduled to participate in the Central League Holiday Tournament at Eben, which runs from Dec. 29 to Jan. 3.

The Rock schedule: Nov. 25—Perkins Dec. 2—Rapid River Dec. 5—Bark River Dec. 6—at Watersmeet Dec. 12—Eben Dec. 16—Champion Jan. 9—at Big Bay Jan. 16—at Trenary Jan. 30—at Rapid River Feb. 3—Trenary Feb. 6—at Bark River Feb. 13—at Eben Feb. 20—Big Bay Feb. 21—Watersmeet Feb. 28—at Perkins

RECEIVES ANSWER — A letter from Pro Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle is the No. 1 attraction around the Lakeside School in Manistique these days. Showing his letter to arch "Packer Backer" rival David Jahn, left, is Terry DeMars. Terry, the only Lion fan in the Lakeside sixth grade, wrote Rozelle to complain about the pro football players' inattention when the National Anthem was played before game play got underway. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jahn, 608 Manistique Ave., and Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Edwin DeMars, 629 Oak St. Both boys are sixth grade students. (Daily Press Photo)

Manistique Boy Catches Pro Gridders 'Offside'

If you notice the pro football players standing at attention next Sunday when the national anthem is played before the game starts, credit part of that attention to the efforts of an 11-year-old Manistique boy.

Terry DeMars, a sixth grader at the Lakeside School and a Lion fan (of which there aren't many in these parts), didn't like the players' disrespect when the anthem was played and the pledge recited.

Writes Rozelle

So, he sat down and wrote Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle and promptly received a reply from football's No. 1 man.

(In Upper Peninsula-land there is a breed of fan, known commonly as a "Packer Backer," who loudly and vocally expounds, exaggerates, exalts and excuses every facet of his team's performance and usually sends the silent minority of dedicated "Lion Tamers" running for the nearest exit. It

Bay de Noc Wins Dartball Tourney

Bay de Noc Tavern captured championship honors in the Escanaba Tavern Dartball Association's first half tournament last night, topping Eddy's Bar two out of three games for the title. K. B. Smith was the leading hitter for Bay de Noc.

The consolation championship will be decided Thursday at Lark's Town Tap with the Colonial Hotel playing Lark's at 8 p.m.

No dartball will be played Monday, Nov. 17, the first week of hunting season. League play will resume Monday, Nov. 24.

might be pointed out, for the benefit of these Green Bay gremlins, that a "Lion Tamer," in the person of Terry DeMars, made the attempt to correct a situation he felt needed correcting.)

Lion Fan

"My name is Terry DeMars, I am 11 years old, and I am a Lion fan. The only one in my room. The rest are mostly Packer Backers, especially our teacher (Mrs. Carla McKilligan). But it really doesn't matter what team we're for and I think there should be something done about the way the football teams stand and pledge our flag," Terry's letter to Rozelle began.

"In school we are taught to respect our flag and I think that the football players should stand at attention like we do because we look up to them as heroes.

"Please tell the teams we'll be watching how the players stand while the pledge is said or when the Star Spangled Banner is sung. Regards," he concluded.

Rozelle Replies

Under date of Nov. 7, Terry received the following reply

North Stars Seeking Geoffrion For Coach

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The Assistant General Manager of the New York Rangers, Bernie Geoffrion, is in the Twin Cities with his wife and may wind up as coach of the Minnesota North Stars.

Wren Blair, general manager and coach of the North Stars, confirmed Tuesday holding three telephone conversations with Geoffrion concerning the Minnesota coaching slot.

Geoffrion, one of the National Hockey League's All-Time greats, and his wife are house guests of the Blairs and will be guests of the Minnesota club when the North Stars play Philadelphia tonight at Metropolitan Sports Center.

Blair emphasized that he had obtained permission of New York General Manager Coach Emile Francis before conferring with Geoffrion.

"I think I can be positive in saying that no announcements, one way or the other, will be forthcoming while Geoffrion and his wife are here," Blair said.

"This meeting is part of the process of our discussions with him. We want to show him this area as a place to live and raise his family.

"We'll also have a general discussion of the possibility of him taking the coaching job, but none of this implies a commitment on his part or our part."

Blair said if Geoffrion is indeed hired as coach, it is possible that he may not assume the coaching chores until some later time, perhaps not until the beginning of the 1970-71 season.

"We're looking at this on a long-term basis," Blair said.

"We eventually plan to hire a coach and even if we wanted to wait until next year, it's important to get the spade work done now."

Blair has said continually he would rather not coach. He offered the post to Punch Imlach, former Toronto general manager and coach, prior to this season but Imlach declined, listing family reasons for not taking the Minnesota post.

"Your comments concerning the National Anthem are absolutely correct and we agree with them fully. In fact, just last week we sent a memorandum to our member clubs concerning proper conduct during the playing of the Star Spangled Banner. This week we are sending them copy of your letter so that they can have an understanding of the feeling that can be expressed by an eleven-year-old fan.

"By way of explanation, not excuse, we ask you to consider the fact that a player's concentration prior to a game is very deep and in many cases, depending on individual personalities, not conducive to solemnity.

"We really appreciate your interest in professional football, and under separate cover I am sending you some books which I believe you might enjoy."

Richards Named Gladstone Coach

GLADSTONE—Robert Richards, an assistant football coach in the Gladstone School system for the past 12 years, has been elevated to the position of head football coach, succeeding Don Pfothenauer, who recently announced his retirement.

Pfothenauer guided the Braves to the Great Lakes Conference championship with a 6-1-1 season and was named Coach of the Year by the U.P. Sportswriters Association this past Saturday.

Richards graduated from Western Michigan University in 1951 and earned his masters degree from Northern Michigan University in 1969. He has taught in Gladstone since 1954 and took over as Community School Director in 1968. He previously taught in Perkins before coming to Gladstone.

Richards coached the 1968-69 track team which won the Great Lakes Conference title as well as the U.P. regional crown before capturing the U.P. championship. During the past four years, his junior varsity football team has won 25 games while losing just 3. His 1969 team finished the season unbeaten in eight games.

Pfothenauer was the head coach at Gladstone High School for the past 21 years. In that time, his teams have had only three losing seasons.

In other action at the Board of Education meeting Monday night, Jack Ingalls, basketball coach at Gladstone High School, was appointed assistant track coach.

The first time sophomore Tommy Lowry carried the ball for Auburn this season he raced 50 yards for a touchdown against Wake Forest.

Tiger Stadium Out In Suburb

SOUTHFIELD (AP) — Land proposed for a sports stadium complex in the Detroit suburb of Southfield has been rezoned to allow commercial development but not a stadium.

The area, proposed by a group of businessmen as a site for a stadium for the Lions and Tigers, was previously zoned for residential purposes.

At one point, the Southfield site seemed a likely winner for construction of the new stadium, but heavy local opposition has dimmed its prospects. Southfield residents will vote next summer on an ordinance which would limit the size of any stadium built to 12,000 seats.

Hull's Contract Not Settled Yet

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks broke their silence Tuesday in the Bobby Hull dispute by putting down their super star for discussing contract negotiations with the news media.

General Manager Tommy Ivan said "Negotiations for the return of Bobby Hull, although progressing nicely, are not fully ironed out."

Ivan's statement came a day after Hull had said he expected to sign a new contract and would be ready to play Saturday.

Hull, 30, scored a record 58 goals last season but has missed the Hawks first 12 games this season.

"Hull signed a four year contract in 1968, which has three years to run," said Ivan. "There never was any dispute on the terms of his contract. When and if he returns to the ice, he will be playing under this contract. The terms in the dispute are in no way connected with his functions as a hockey player."

"If and when full agreement with Bobby is reached, Billy Reay and I will decide when Hull is in condition to be of benefit to the team and allow him to rejoin the club. From what we have seen of his skating so far, it will not be this weekend.

"After last year's disastrous season, it was the responsibility of myself as General Manager and Billy Reay as coach, with the full approval and backing of William W. Wirtz, president of the club and all the other owners, to use our best efforts to rebuild the club into championship contention. To accomplish these results we have changed our policies requiring players to subordinate outside activities and give hockey their full effort.

"We decided early in training camp to insert as many rookies as the club could stand and rebuild completely. Understandably, we must be patient because of their inexperience but our main concern is to get a maximum team effort with aggressive as well as defensive play.

"After all, hockey is a team game and we learned last season that individual records do not win championships.

"I would just like to say that we do not detract from Hull's great ability as a hockey player or discount some of his spectacular efforts in the past or his contributions to the club. However, the Black Hawks are dedicated to bringing a championship to Chicago fans and Bobby will have to support our new policies."

Hull was not available for comment.

San Diego Quarterback Impressing Pro Scouts

By The Associated Press

You can have Mike Phipps of Purdue, Rex Kern of Ohio State, Archie Manning of Mississippi, Jim Plunkett of Stanford or any of the other outstanding college quarterbacks. Fido Murphy—and possibly the Chicago Bears—will take Dennis Shaw of San Diego State.

Of course, just about anyone would take Shaw after the performance he put on in a 58-32 rout of Pacific Saturday night. The 6-foot-2 1/2, 205-pound senior from Claremont, Calif., completed 25 of 38 passes for 463 yards and seven—count 'em—seven touchdowns.

For that show, Shaw was college football's Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

"Shaw is better than Plunkett and Plunkett's a good one," said Murphy, a scout for the Bears. "I honestly believe he's better than Phipps. He's a good deal better than Don Horn of the Packers, who played here. He's like Roman Gabriel of the Rams, but niftier. This is a big strong, tough kid who runs better than most quarterbacks, too."

Shaw came to San Diego State by way of the University of Southern California—which apparently didn't think much of him as a quarterback—and Mt. San Antonio Junior College.

As a freshman, Southern Cal had Shaw playing defensive end and he wound up in the hospital when he blocked a placekick with his face.

The next spring there were five quarterbacks on the varsity roster. Shaw tired it at linebacker but wasn't much good. So he dropped out of USC and spent a year at St. SAC.

San Diego State was glad to get him. The Aztecs have a 7-0 record this season after going 9-1-1 a year ago and 10-1 in 1967. Over that span, Shaw has completed 260 of 457 passes for 4,218 yards and 44 touchdowns. This season he's 126 for 217 for 2,079 yards and 25 TDs.

"He has a very strong arm," says Coach Don Coryell, "and he sets up very fast. He's poised, a great pressure player and a leader. He's also durable and a strong runner."

Murphy isn't the only pro scout aware of Shaw.

"What I particularly like about him," says Ron Wolf of the Oakland Raiders, "is his ability to stay in the pocket and his coolness and poise under fire."

Jack Faulkner of the New Orleans Saints goes even further.

"Shaw was probably the finest drop back passer in the nation as a junior. As long as he stays healthy and continues to improve he can't miss being a No. 1 choice in the pro draft."

In winning Back of the Week honors, Shaw beat out: —Terry McMillan, Missouri quarterback, 312 yards and three touchdown passes in a 44-10 rout of Oklahoma.

—Watson Brown, Vanderbilt quarterback, threw three TD passes and returned a punt 62 yards for another as the Commodores trounced Kentucky 42-6.

—Warren Muir, South Carolina fullback, gained 159 yards as the Gamecocks held third-ranked Tennessee to a hard-earned 29-14 victory.

—Gordon Slade, Davidson quarterback, threw five scoring passes as the Wildcats rallied from a 27-0 deficit to beat East Carolina 42-27 and clinch the Southern Conference crown.

—Ernie Jennings, Air Force flanker, caught five touchdown passes in a 38-15 triumph over Utah State.

White Blood Cells Cause Heart Attack?

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — White blood cells—the body's shock troops against invading germs—might also be among the underlying causes of heart attacks, a team of New York researchers said today.

The possibility is suggested by research on rabbits, reported Dr. Sanford C. Spraragen and several colleagues of New York City's Veterans Administration Hospital and Downstate Medical Center.

In a report prepared for the annual meeting of the American Heart Association's Council on Arteriosclerosis, Dr. Spraragen stressed that further work needs to be done before white blood cells could definitely be incriminated in human heart disease.

But he said the rabbit research adds up to this: Certain white blood cells have the ability to invade the inner wall of an artery, lodge there, become fat-filled cells called "foam cells," and apparently can contribute to the process of "atherosclerosis"—a technical term for a dangerous form of hardening of the arteries.

In atherosclerosis, arteries are clogged with particles of fatty substances deposited on the inner lining of the blood vessel. It long has been under suspicion as a major cause of coronary heart attacks. Diets high in animal fats and oils have been blamed by many scientists as being key contributors.

In the New York experiments, 3-month-old rabbits from the same litter were divided into two groups. Both groups were fed diets rich in cholesterol, a chemical component of animal fats and oils.

After ten weeks, white blood cells were isolated from one group of rabbits and injected into the other animals. The blood cells were tagged with a radioactive material so they could be located later in the recipients' aortic tissue.

It was found that transplanted white blood cells invaded the arterial wall at the site of atherosclerotic deposits already formed there, and contributed to foam-cell formation.

Man's Walk On Moon Example Of TV Education

EAST LANSING (AP)—Man's walk on the moon also was man's greatest example of televised education, according to a Michigan State University authority on television education.

The moon walk engrossed millions of viewers around the world, although it was not an educational television production said Dr. Lawrence McKune, director of the MSU University of The Air and compiler of a national compendium of televised education.

McKune predicted television will become as common to the classroom as the telephone is to the household. He estimated more than 20 million Americans studied televised education courses in 1968.

McKune made the estimate from 7,002 sources in 4,124 institutions. He said educational television networks are in or near operation in 43 states reporting and are planned by five more. Closed circuit television systems were reported from 287 institutions and fixed service systems from 59 institutions.

A total of 1,008 institutions said they used educational television stations. Another 327 said they used commercial stations.

Railroad Crash Fatal To Man, 63

VICKSBURG (AP) — Edward M. Hall, 63, of Harlan, Ind., was killed Tuesday when his truck was rammed by a train at a crossing near this southern Kalamazoo County community.

Police said Hall was stopped behind two cars waiting for a train to pass. He apparently became impatient, they said, and went around the cars and gate crossing only to be struck by another train coming from the other direction.

Mishap Fatal

PONTIAC (AP) — Injured in a head-on auto crash Sunday, Zane J. Goyette, 39, of Union Lake, died Tuesday in a Pontiac hospital. The crash occurred in nearby Waterford Township.

Dr. Augenstein Eulogized By Lansing Pastor

EAST LANSING (AP) — The late Dr. Leroy Augenstein, 41, member of the State Board of Education, was eulogized Tuesday as a man who "stands tall and true and excellent."

"He had a marvelous ability to span the generation gap and speak to youth. What a great and unusual gift it is," the Rev. Wallace Robertson, pastor of the East Lansing Peoples Church, said at memorial services.

Meanwhile, private burial services were held in Lansing Tuesday for Augenstein, who died Saturday when his light plane crashed in fog about two miles from a Charlotte airport where he was to have landed.

Augenstein also was chairman of the Michigan State University biophysics department, a lay theologian and a politician who considered running for the GOP nomination for U.S. Senate.

He had a marvelous ability to span the generation gap and speak to youth. What a great and unusual gift it is," said the Rev. Mr. Robertson.

Augenstein joined the MSU biophysics department in 1962 after heading biological research projects at Brookhaven National Laboratory and Working for the Atomic Energy Commission.

By 1968 his extensive activities in religious affairs brought him an estimated 1,200 speaking invitations. It was then that he bought a 1955 Piper Apache airplane to help keep his schedule. He was returning from such a speaking engagement at Indiana's Earlham College when he crashed.

Born in Decatur, Ill., Augenstein graduated from James Milliken University there, then took advanced degrees at the University of Chicago and the University of Illinois.

Besides his wife, he leaves a son, David Leroy, 4; a daughter, Kimberley Beth, 1; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Augenstein and a brother, David, all of Decatur.

Michigan State University said Tuesday it will establish a Leroy Augenstein Scholarship fund.

Toledo Scene Of Power Failure

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A broken transmission line blacked out about half of Toledo—a city of more than 300,000 persons—for nearly three hours Tuesday night.

A spokesman for the Toledo Edison Electric Co. said rain hampered efforts to correct the trouble, which came during the evening rush hour and caused massive traffic jams.

WE ARE STILL PILGRIMS.

We no longer give thanks around a rough wooden table in a forest clearing. Our problems and rewards have taken different shapes too, but they are basically the same.

We are still making a pilgrimage, the same search for a fuller and more fruitful life under freedom of religion. And we are still thankful for the faith that sees us through adversity and guides us on that pilgrimage.

Thanksgiving Day was named for its meaning—the day that we came together to give thanks for our faith and our full life... and to remember that we are still pilgrims.

This Thanksgiving Day, give your thanks; strengthen your faith; enlighten your pilgrimage, at your place of worship.

Democrats Urge Air Control Law

The Delta County Democratic Committee Tuesday night generally endorsed local, governmental initiative and concern with respect to environmental pollution problems and adopted a resolution specifically urging the County Board of Supervisors to enact an air pollution ordinance which will provide effective and meaningful control over sources and potential sources of air pollution in Delta County.

During discussion on the resolution, it was noted that leadership in the fight against pollution in the 11th Congressional District had been pledged by the Democratic Party and that pollution was the subject of a recent address by Michigan's Sen. Philip A. Hart at a Democratic Party dinner at Marquette.

Plans were also made for a county convention on Dec. 4 for the purpose of electing delegates to a State Democratic Party convention in January to take action on recommendations for political reform.

Delegates elected for the State convention will also attend an 11th District convention at Iron Mountain Dec. 13. It was also announced that the Democratic Women's Club will hold its annual Christmas sale at Advanced Electric at Escanaba on Dec. 5. Handmade articles and baked goods will be sold.

Air Ordinance Meeting Closed To News Media

Frank Stupak, chairman of the Delta County Board of Supervisors, said today that representatives of news media will not be allowed to attend a meeting scheduled tonight to discuss the legal aspects of the proposed clean air ordinance.

The board last week asked that a representative of the Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air, the group which drafted the ordinance, meet with the board and representatives of industry in the area. The Save Our Air committee had asked that the news media be represented at the meeting.

Lack Of Quorum Stalls Traffic

Lack of a quorum of the Citizens Advisory Safety Committee Tuesday night has delayed action on development of new traffic regulations for the central business district of Escanaba.

The committee was scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. with business representatives, but only three members of the committee — Robert Crepeau, George Goymerac and Rene Labre — showed up.

Absent were James Pryal, chairman, who called from Green Bay, Wis., to explain his absence, Lowell Sundstrom, Alcott Gustafson and Roland Taylor.

There were five persons representing a group of downtown businessmen who have proposed an alternate traffic plan who appeared. They were Forrest Henslee, Robert Mosenfelder, Dan Boyle, Gordon Sullivan and Patrick Kinn.

The meeting scheduled Tuesday was the second at which the lack of a quorum delayed any recommendation on a new traffic plan for the central business area. The City Council last week postponed debate on the situation pending receipt of recommendations by the committee.

Council, the Safety Committee and the downtown group all have expressed concern about traffic and parking problems in the central business district, particularly during peak traffic periods on Friday evenings and Saturdays.

Citizens Voice Loud Complaints Over Ore Dust

An irate group of citizens residing in north Escanaba near the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. iron ore terminal met Tuesday night at the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center to exchange information on the problems of pollution from the new terminal.

Dust from the ore pellets, fumes from idling diesel engines and cracking plaster and cement from the noise were some of the problems pointed out by residents of the area. "You can see your footprints on the bedroom floor, no matter how often my wife cleans it," one man said.

Women Complain
"My front porch is breaking away from the house," another commented.

Women complained that clothes have to be soaked for three days to clean them after being hung on outdoor clotheslines and that bathroom fixtures are being coated with gritty, pink dust.

Amer Pederson, president of the Delta County Citizens to Save Our Air, is gathering material to take to Lansing on Nov. 25 to the next meeting of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission at which time the C&NW has been ordered to appear before the Board to report on what action the company plans to take to abate the air and noise pollution problems.

A film taken at the ore facility which will be used at the Lansing meeting was shown to the group Tuesday. After viewing the clouds of dust, several citizens commented that was what they saw every day.

Support Asked
The Save Our Air group asked for support on its proposed county ordinance, stating that such a facility as the ore dock could not be built without proper pollution controls being installed at the time of construction under their proposed ordinance, properly enforced.

"You won't have to go all the way to Lansing and wait for months for relief if we deal with the problems of pollution locally. You can take your complaints to your fellow citizens," Pederson said.

The proposed Delta County Air Pollution Ordinance now before the County Board of Supervisors provides for a local Air Pollution Control Board to review applications for new industries and to hear citizen complaints.

Major Problem Noted
The meeting closed with a request from the Save Our Air group for letters from the northside citizens stating their specific problems from the ore dock pollution which could be taken to Lansing and shown to the Michigan Air Pollution Board as evidence that a major problem does exist.

Save Our Air also asked the group to attend the public hearing on the proposed county air pollution ordinance on Nov. 18 at the regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors at the Delta County Building and voice their support for the ordinance.

New Mobe Set 'To Do Thing'

cost $100,000. "But I don't really know and I don't think anyone knows," he added.

Hallinan, co-chairman of the parallel West Coast effort, said he wouldn't be surprised if operations there also cost $100,000. The New Mobe expects to spend $15,000 just to convert a San Francisco polo grounds into a rally site.

Both East and West Coast Mobes worked independently to raise funds.

$5,000 Donation
Most donations ranged from $5 to $25, fund-raisers said. One East Coast businessman, whom they would not identify, came through with $5,000 for the largest single individual contribution.

Lens said labor groups have donated between $2,000 and $10,000 so far. Among them, he said, were the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters.

What will become of the New Mobe after Saturday? Lens says it will survive. "We've been holding together since the summer of 1966 and our coalition now is infinitely broader than it was then."

Peck is less optimistic. "I think it has good potential," he said, then pegged the future of the coalition to what's ahead in Vietnam.

President Nixon, Peck said, actually served notice of war intensification in his speech Nov. 3 and the effect of that will drive more people into the peace movement—eventually.

"It takes time for that to jell," Peck said. "But I think it will."
